Disability Services Liaison Network

Purpose
As Duke University continues its efforts to welcome individuals with disabilities, the number of qualified students with disabilities has continued to increase. In order for the University to ensure timely exploration of reasonable accommodations, academic units have identified individuals to serve as Disability Service Liaisons (DSL). DSLs work in collaboration with the Director of the Student Disability Access Office.

General Responsibilities
a. To provide prompt and knowledgeable access to information about mandated disability accommodations, services, and resources at Duke University
b. To implement the Student Disability Access Office procedures for students to receive accommodations
c. To effectively ensure disability-related accommodations to qualified students with disabilities
